Connolly Looks Like a "Find"

New Pilgrim Is Fast Player

By A. H. C. MITCHELL

RICHMOND, Va., April 3.—Joe Connolly, the Woonsocket boy, who was recently secured by Stallings from the Washington club, made good in his first appearance in a Boston uniform. He isn't exactly a little fellow, but he's far from being a big man. He has speed, and that is one of the things the Boston club needs badly. He is not a finished fielder. He goes after a fly ball badly, but his style in this respect can be improved upon.

Connolly reported to Stallings when the Boston squad arrived from Charlottesville. He is a jovial fellow, little thing, who seems to play because he likes the game. He did not waste any time on the bench, for Stallings put him right in the game. He played left field, while old Joe Seymour was given his chance to centre.

Cy looks good at the bat, although he did not get a hit, but in the field he was very slow, and one of Richmond's three-base hits in his territory should not have been more than a single. But it is not of Seymour, but of Connolly, that the friends of the Boston team are interested.

CONNOLLY IS FAST, AND GOOD HITTER.

Connolly made a very good impression on the manager. It would be foolish to say he is a coming wonder. It may be that he will never rise above the mediocre. But at any rate he has speed, and he looks as though he could hit. The fact that he made three hits against the Richmond pitchers, nearly half the number made by his teammates, means nothing much. He did what he was told to do at the bat. The two-base hit he is credited with was a sharp hit to the second baseman. A big leaguer would have stopped the ball and probably fished it cleanly, but the Richmond ball stopped it to hit him in the shin, and the ball glanced off to centre field.

Will Speed Up Team.

The opposing pitcher foolishly threw the ball to first and made a wild heave of it, so that it bounced in the left, the winning run came in. In five times at bat Connolly made three hits, batted a double. It is true that only one of these was of the clean variety, but they counted just the same.

If the little fellow is able to win a regular berth on the Boston team, the chances of speed will be increased, for there is no doubt but that he can run fast.

On the whole, it was a good thing for the Boston to win the test game in Richmond. Our players gave a very weak exhibition of hitting, except in the ninth inning, when they made a rally that would have brought South End ground crowd to its feet. But in order to win Stallings had to bring all his resources to the front. First he sent Burke in to bat for Devost.

Kirk made a clean single. He is a poor runner, so Jackson was sent in to run for him. Then MacFarlane was put in to bat for Devost. He, too, made good with a single. The next man, and he was told to lay down a bunt, did so in pretty manner. He laid the throw in first baseman's block, but the pitcher checked the ball just the same, and there it was. The little fellow came in.

Then MacFarlane lifted a long fly to left which was muffed after a hard run, and the winning run came in. The end.

WOOD IN GREAT CONDITION FOR PENNANT RACE

By L. R. MURDOCH

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 3.—Joe Wood, the demon pitcher of the Red Sox staff, is ready for the opening of the American League season. The good thing is in wonderful form and should have a very successful season.

Joe proved that he is ready to do his best work yesterday when he worked in the last four innings of the game against the University of Illinois and lost by a score of 10 to 0. Only twelve men faced Wood's great pitcher and each of these twelve retired to the bench a victim of Wood's dazzling speed. The collection swung at the ball in a desperate way, but few of them were able to even hit a foul ball.

Wood was given a great reception by the "fans" when he struck the red man in the ninth inning. Joe only muffed and declared that he had not expected himself to be content to put just a little "smash" on the ball.

Ray Collins pitched the other four innings and he fanned six and allowed only one hit. The big southpaw is fast getting into condition. "Fats" Stahl is a hero with the people of this town. It was here that he first attracted attention as an athlete. He was a pitcher in the minor leagues. The members of the team are all in good condition. "Doc" Leonard was the only man who was not out for practice yesterday. He has a slight cold but should be all right in a few days. It will be impossible for the Sox to play in Cincinnati Sunday and so it is planned to go to Chicago the latter part of the week and journey from there to Boston, where the team is due early Monday morning.

NAPS IN FRONT.

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—The Cleveland team of the American League defeated New Orleans 4 to 1 at the Civic stadium Sunday and so it is planned to go to Chicago the latter part of the week and journey from there to Boston, where the team is due early Monday morning.

Pilgrims Fielded Well.

While the team did not bat well in the game against Richmond, which at once is only a fourth of the way to the pennant, the team did hit lightning. MacFarlane, Devost and Mays played grand.

The infield work of the Pilgrims has been comparatively good all through, and if the club only had a speedy outfield the prospects of team would be "righter than rain." There is no one else who can be counted on as good as he did a week or ten days ago. Devost and Mays seem to be ready, but the bumps that Jesus got yesterday shows that he either has a lot to learn, or that the Richmond pitcher was very lucky to hit him the way they did. Probably there is something to both of these reasons.

St. Eulalia Nine Opens Schedule for Strong Teams

The St. Eulalia baseball team, champions of Greater Boston by virtue of its victory over the Somerville B. B. C. at the Fenway Park last October, is in a position to challenge the strongest teams in New England. Manager Hallman will consider offers immediately.

Danny Maries, formerly with the Bennett A. A. of Somerville, will pitch for the St. Eulalia team with Jack Murphy of Holy Cross College as his battery mate. Frank O'Donoghue, at first; Eddie Ryan, formerly of the Notre Dame and Chesham, at second; Sullivan at short; and "Bucky" Kane at third base comprise one of the most talented line-ups ever selected.

Bill Mahoney will play left field, George Page will pitch in the centre garden and John Vincent of Gloucester will work in right field. Teams desiring games with the St. Eulalia should communicate immediately with Paul W. Hallahan, No. 500 Broadway, North Boston, or telephone South Boston 243-5.

Lemle Agrees to Battle Burns in Go Here Monday

Kent Lemle, "the Rubenish Perfect Man," has wired "Promoter George" T. Tanager that he had accepted the terms offered him to meet Cydonius Burns in the opening number of the wrestling carnival to be held in Mechanic's building next Monday night. This will complete the program.

While no championships are involved, the three pairs of men who will meet are among the world's best in their class. Burns will concede some weight to Lemle, but will have the speed and wider experience of catch-as-catch-can. This bout will be limited, because of the fact that Lemle and Burns are both of the International League and Player Joe Nagle to the Wausau club of the Wisconsin-Illinois League. The men will report to their respective clubs at once.

M'KAY KNOCKED OUT IN BATTLE WITH 'GUNBOAT'

NEW YORK, April 3.—"Gunboat" Smith is looking around for new worlds to conquer this bright Spring day. The young man with the sleep-producing wallop has added one more scalp to his collection. It bears the name of Fred McKay, a brawler's son.

The "Gunboat" person has no respect for even the loving son of a Canadian bishop. He fought Frederick in this fair village last evening. In the second round of the encounter Smith landed so hard on Mr. McKay's jaw that the latter tumbled to the mat and remained there while the referee counted from one to ten.

It was some fall, too, as McKay is six feet, six inches tall. But as an old ring follower in Boston once remarked, "The bigger they are the harder they fall." McKay just went down as though he had his head in the mouth of a sixteen-pound vanguard and somebody touched off the fuse, just for fun.

Frederick looked good for one round. He looked like a regular champion. But in the second round Mr. Smith punched him six or six times, and McKay then sat up, and so he looks a short snort in the rear of the ring while the "fans" cheered the young brawler who carries the sleep powder stored away in his boxing gloves.

PLAYER JACK FROST LIVES UP TO NAME

CINCINNATI, O., April 2.—The Cincinnati Baseball club announces that it has released Player Jack Frost to the first of Louisville and Cuff and Fiddle and Louie will be to a finish, but two out of three falls.

Burns once more. Burns, at the Grand Opera House tonight.

Battling Nelson to Quit Fighting; the Mrs. Says So

By ED CURLEY

"Yes my brave hero," she murmured, as she nestled snugly on his manly breast, "I will love you forever. Even though your money vanishes and I have to leave you, I'll love you just the same."

"Then, little one," he answered in manly tones, "let us cut down expenses, both grub and job, and then, we, you and I, will defy the crowd world."

Three cheers for the little angelic Cupid. They may stagger him and force him to take the count of nine, but when the referee announces the winner, little Cupid catches all his love. And this is one wager that the little fellow, who deplores clothes, collect, and at long odds.

For glory be to goodness, Mrs. Battling Nelson takes back her devoted baby and both announce directly that the parring was all due to a misunderstanding. Everything is now on the level, they say, and the bedtime champion gladly takes the spoon, strikes round his neck and takes the long count with huge delight.

There is only one thing Mrs. Battling Nelson demands; that is, the Battling Nelsons should fight. We're for that. The marvel of the ring has done his share and must have enough to insure him a seat at the dining table until he cracks.

STAR MEN WILL START IN BIG UNICORN GRIND

By THOMAS J. HALPIN.
Quarter-Mile Champion of the United States and Canada.

The all-important contest to athletic prowess is the Unicorn Grind, which will take place for the first time on April 19. It is the start of the season and every hill and dale athlete of the country.

While the local "fans" are hoping that one of the Boston athletes will be returned the winner, yet the competition will be severe. Among the most prominent names to date is that of Harry Smith, the national tennis champion. Smith has won that title for the past two years and is a favorite of the fans. He is a fast and powerful runner and is expected to win the race. He is a favorite of the fans and is expected to win the race.

Another prominent entry, and a runner who will be watching, is J. Duffy of Canada, who finished fifth in the Swedish Marathon. Duffy is a wonderful runner and is expected to win the race. He is a favorite of the fans and is expected to win the race.

The most talked of athlete in the ranks of local runners is Felix Madden, the North Portland runner, who has had the experience of running marathons in 1911. Madden has gained considerable experience since then and is determined to win the grueling race. Up to the present time he has not shown any remarkable form in any of his recent runs, but he is a fast and powerful runner and is expected to win the race.

Attell Meets Walsh Tonight Rivals Clash in Gotham Ring

By JACK CONWAY

JIMMY WALSH will once again battle the crafty Abe Attell this evening. These two winners of the ring club in a five-round contest in New York and it should be a brilliant affair, though there may not be enough splashy crowd to fill the ten sessions of boxing to satisfy those "fans" who are only happy when two men are standing toe to toe and snapping punch for punch.

Walsh and Attell are old and bitter rivals. They have engaged in numerous contests and Attell won them all until he fought Jimmy at the Phipps Club last fall. This bout was declared a draw. The rounds were only ten-minute affairs, but if the men had fought the regulation three-minute rounds Walsh would have surely been returned the winner by a wide margin, as the former featherweight king was completely outwitted when the ball pounded at the end of the final stanza.

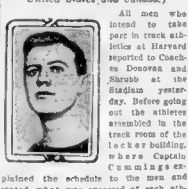

Attell believes that he is capable of "coming back." In his last ring contest he defeated Otto Kline of St. Louis in three rounds. In Walsh, however, Attell will meet one of the best men of his weight in the world today and he will have to travel at top speed in order to get an even break.

A BIG crowd of eight "fans" is expected to witness the bout at the Lenox A. C. in Gloucester this evening. Joe Lagan, the South Boston lightweight, and "Kid" Walcott of Fall River are slated to close in the main bout of the evening. Lagan is a fast and sturdy boxer who has been performing to good effect during the past six months. He is a favorite of the fans and is expected to win the race. He is a fast and powerful runner and is expected to win the race.

The latter is a strong, muscular boxer who has been performing to good effect during the past six months. He is a favorite of the fans and is expected to win the race. He is a fast and powerful runner and is expected to win the race.

HARVARD TRACK ATHLETES HOLD FIRST WORKOUT

By J. O. JOHNSTONE.
(Champion High Jumper of the United States and Canada.)

All men who intend to take part in track athletics at Harvard reported to Coach E. Donovan and Harrah at the Stadium yesterday. Before going to the stadium the athletes assembled in the track room of the track building, where Coach Donovan and Harrah held a meeting. The first day of the season is expected to report to Coach Harrah and Donovan every day, for the track season is well under way and the different meets are not far off. Besides the big intercollegiate and Penn relay, dual meets are slated with Yale and Cornell.

B. C. HIGH BALL PLAYERS HAVE GOOD OUTLOOK

By J. O. JOHNSTONE.

Boston College High School expects to have as strong a ball team this year as it had last year and if anything to surpass the splendid record made by that team. The team has been practicing for the past week at the South street playground, Roxbury.

The number of candidates has been large, especially for the infield position, that the faculty director selected a position of the infield candidates to report today and the others will report to him at a later date.

Those who have been selected to report for practice for the next few days are: Murray, Amitt, Kinsman, Fiddis, O'Leary, D. Murphy, McKee, Crowder, Woodford, Blevins, Duff, Franderger, Ulfington, Whoolsey and McCormick.

Brutal Apache Dance of the Paris Underworld

"The Apaches are generally young, and their dance is more or less acrobatic. The man expresses brutish passion and jealousy, the woman affection and fear."

Story by Margaret Hubbard Ayer. Sketch by Michelson.

In the lowest slums of Paris live the Apaches, who have taken the name of the Red Men in vain. They have never seen an Indian, and it's safe to say that no Indian would look at a French Apache except to watch him dance.

Is Matrimony Such a Bore That Average Couples Want to Throw Plates at Each Other to Relieve Its Monotony?

By DOROTHY DIX

Of the average husband and wife, who have to eat three hundred and sixty-five breakfasts and fifty dinners a year together, get so tired of seeing the same old faces opposite to them that they get to the point where they would like to throw plates at each other in their desperation to get something started.

De the man and woman who are bound together as yoke-fellows not to such of the enforced companionship that the matrimonial bond gives wherever it touches? Do the husband and wife who have to listen to each other's conversation, day in and day out, year after year, get so weary of each other's studies and opinions that they take refuge in silence—so thick that you could cut it with a knife?

And if matrimony is a bore, what is the remedy for it? What means can be suggested to relieve it?

I have received many entertaining letters on this subject. Here's one from a regular "Bluebird" of a man who thinks that the reason matrimony is a bore is because men treat their wives too well. Just think of that in this day of suffrage! I wouldn't like to be the man when his wife reads him letters for the first time.

It all depends, and depends only on the man, whether it is a success or not. A man must be a little bit of an appreciation that he receives from his wife, and desires to reciprocate what-soever.

The sooner he quits making a door mat of himself, in other words, takes care of all the quibbles his wife will look upon him with admiration eyes, and there will be no need for him to give thought to the life of his wife to the thoughtless and affection which is dear to the woman's heart. At the same time I draw the line on forcing any atonement on a woman for her husband or a husband for his wife.

Is matrimony a bore? Yes, yes, yes. After any one is married they think it gives them a perfect right to say and do as they please to the other member of the married firm.

If a woman looks like she never hears from her husband, but if she doesn't, she never says anything about it. "Good night!"

"He really won't be so kind as to roll her back." If he were only so anxious to roll her back, why didn't he roll her back when she was a girl? Why didn't he roll her back when she was a girl? Why didn't he roll her back when she was a girl?

Then, before a girl is married, if her married says, I have never Mary Smith yet. She is so looking like these days, she never says anything about it. "Good night!"

"After marriage she says, 'My goodness, you ignorant fool. I was dreadfully stupid the way you were talking to me. Smith just now. It's a wonder so no one mother wouldn't have LEARNED."

So say we all. But what makes matrimony a bore? Does the wife's looks make a man tired? Is it the husband's conduct in the home that gets on a wife's nerves? Why is it to blame for the so-called monotony of domesticity, and how can it be avoided?

Lucky Wedding Days

May to last and you will be the most: May to last and you will be the most: May to last and you will be the most:

May and February were held by the ancient Romans to be the two months in the year which were certain to bring ill luck, while even the Church before the time of the Reformation placed a ban upon all marriages contracted between the first Sunday of Advent and Hilary Day, between Septuagesima Sunday and Low Sunday, and between Rogation Sunday and Pentecost Sunday. These only thirty-two weeks of the year were left by the Church for marrying.

As to the best day, if we would believe a tradition handed down by the apostles, any day is certain to bring unhappiness if it only be when "the moon is waning."

There are other traditions which, if you are superstitious, it will be well to observe. One of these is that May 14th brings ill luck for all the rest of the year, and if you would be assured of misfortune then select Childermas Day for the date of your wedding. This day is the anniversary of the Massacre of the Innocents. A wedding on the last day of the year is also said to be productive of great misfortune.

PLAYING SAFETY

"How shall I express my sentiments toward you?" said the young man tenderly. "Oh, never, please," said the girl, "there can be no chance of your wringing out of it."

The dancers are dressed in the costume worn by the Paris laborer and his sweetheart. A coat of velvet, long trousers of dark cloth or velvet and a hat and shoes of brilliant color, usually red, for the man, while the girl wears a tight-fitting black dress or a plain, short-sleeved, and skirt.

The Apaches are generally young, and their dance is more or less acrobatic. The man expresses brutish passion and jealousy; the girl, affection and fear. She always is terrified so well as to be frightened by her Apache, no matter what his pretensions of love may be, for he is mad, fierce and tremendous strength have led him into every kind of excess. The music is any popular strain that catches the fancy of the Apache. He approaches and withdraws, either to the left or the right, and when he is a strong enough he lifts her to his arms, and she, with a gasp, and a look of terror at the same time. He utters the word "come" it around her neck, holding it tight.

The Apache then weighs against it, and they whirl giddily about. Suddenly he drops her, and she falls to the ground. It is the story of Bill Sikes and Nancy in the story of Bill Sikes and Nancy. He runs away, but she is caught, she tries to partly him, but he becomes more

TODAYS STOCK MARKET

Stock markets opened irregular and with a downward tendency. The same conditions prevailed during the morning which were dominant yesterday, but the reaction was not pronounced. There is a good deal of uncertainty in the local market several stocks which advanced at the opening lost their gains within the first hour. In New York, however, the market was more steady and there was not a great deal of trading.

Markets appeared to be in a waiting mood on both sides of the Atlantic. The Pond Creek Coal Company report was favorable and it opened with a small gain and afterwards lost it and closed at a slight loss.
